I'm sorry for my hurtful comments especially my comments directed toward both Amer and to local businesses. Please forgive me for my failure to not be respectful. I appreciate all of you out there who provide us jobs. It does not matter what our bank accounts look like, it only matters what love looks like.

And I have changed my mind. I do support Amer and Tariq. I believe that a helicopter landing pad could work for both the community and for healthcare professionals and especially for Tariq. There are not many of us who are lucky enough to work where we have grown up. I appreciate being held to account when my comments become like the rapid-fire scourge that affects our society. How do we fix this brokenness when we all believe something different either politically, religiously, or pragmatically? We can hide in our social media circles with only those who agree with us.

Here is the fix. We need to have more community gatherings and potlucks. Social media will always drive a wedge. We need to make everyone feel apart of the community of Bluff instead of keeping them isolated because they believe something different. We all do believe something different but that does not mean we can hide in the shadows. I propose a community potluck at the community center at some point this month and reoccurring every month. Again I apologize to all whom I offended. I should have thought about the meaning of my words and not spoken with a sword but with my heart.
