Hi Erin -

Unfortunately, I can't join at 4pm due to a client meeting, but I wanted to leave a written public comment on Fire Mesa.

Public comment:

I believe one (of many) important roles a town government can play is to provide services and opportunities to its constituents. While our town may not have the financial resources to offer, we have some great assets that many of us use quite often to improve our lives.

One asset that the town inherited, Fire Mesa, is a great example. It's impressive that we can offer a commercial kitchen rental, equivalent to many larger towns in the area. While it may never make money, it can serve an even greater purpose of enabling opportunities for individuals and small businesses alike.

I hope we can offer this asset as a springboard for those trying to start their own business at an affordable price. Just as we shouldn't worry about "breaking even" on other town assets such as a playground, I hope we can use the same justification for this offering and consider a subscription offering for those who are able to use it regularly.
